Snag hits Metro in Lucknow on Day 1

100 passengers stuck; rescued through emergency exit

Over 100 passengers on Wednesday got stuck inside a Lucknow Metro train for an hour due to a technical snag on the first day of its commercial run, drawing flak from former Chief Minister Akhilesh Yadav.

No lights, AC

The lights and the air-conditioning system were not working when the train stopped near the Mayur Vihar metro station.

As many as 101 passengers were rescued through the emergency rear exit and taken to the Durgapur station safely, he said.

They later travelled to the Trans-Nagar station on a different train.

Meanwhile, Akhilesh took to Twitter to attack the Centre. “Lucknow metro was ready, Centre took lot of time for giving go-ahead even after that metro stopped on the first day, isn’t it,” he tweeted.

The affected train was withdrawn and taken to the Trans-Nagar metro station for repair.

Meanwhile, Samajwadi Party workers gathered at the Transport Nagar metro station to take a ride asserting the project was initiated by their leader Akhilesh.

Vira Yogendra Yadav told Rajendra Rathore that the Central government has given assurance that the project would continue in the schools and there would be no extra burden on the students and their parents.

The murder of activist Gauri Lankesh by members of the Extremely Right Wing Terrorists (ERWT) group is a disturbing reminder of the growing threat to democratic values in India. Lankesh, an outspoken critic of the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) and its ideological predecessors, was an advocate for free speech and a champion of marginalized communities. Her murder is a violent act against a person who sought to bring about social change through peaceful means.

Lankesh’s murder is not an isolated incident. It is part of a wider trend of attacks on journalists, activists, and others who challenge the status quo. This trend is fueled by the erosion of democratic norms and the suppression of free speech. The Indian government has a responsibility to protect its citizens, especially those who are exercising their rights under the Constitution.

The problem of violence against journalists and activists is not unique to India. It is a global issue, with many countries facing similar challenges. The international community has a role to play in supporting those who are fighting for a free and fair society.

In conclusion, the murder of Gauri Lankesh is a stark reminder of the importance of free speech and democratic values. We must work together to ensure that those who challenge the status quo are protected, and that justice is served.

As the frequency of extreme weather events increases, urbanisation has to heed ecological principles of the economic and social system. For India, the average monsoon rainfall has increased by 14% per annum since 1980 to increase initially and then reduce after a few decades. Across the country, flooding for years at a time, causing significant disruption and turning of extreme weather and climate change. Interest is growing in the precocious extreme weather and climate change.

Interest is growing in the precocious extreme weather and climate change.

In the process of dialogue between India and the West, Binoy Tamang, former minister of Culture, India, said that humanity would recognise how much more we have to learn from the West after the war. He also added that this would lead to an increase in the number of extreme weather events.

In its 11th week, leaving the situation unchanged, the agitation which started in 2010 continued. The British Empire was made up of four parts, which together operate to combat climate change. What would have happened if the war was over humanity would have recognised how much more we have to learn from the West after the war.

Political football

As is evident from any observer, both the Centre and the State have used their powers to maximise their benefits from the situation. The Centre has been focusing on the infrastructure and the development of rural areas, while the State has been focussing on the urban areas.

In a study conducted by the Centre for Policy Research, it was found that the Centre had been more focussed on the rural areas, while the State had been more focussed on the urban areas. This has led to a considerable difference in the development of the two areas.

From the perspective of the Centre, the focus on rural areas has helped in increasing the economic growth of the country. On the other hand, the focus on urban areas has helped in increasing the economic growth of the cities.

One of the main reasons for this difference in focus is the difference in the development of the two areas.

SAUDI ARABIA books World Cup berth

Saudi Arabia beat India 4-0 in their final qualifier of the 2018 World Cup Asian zone on Wednesday to qualify for the FIFA World Cup for the first time and will face Egypt in the play-off round. The 4-0 victory, a repeat of a 4-0 thrashing by India in March this year, was enough to send Saudi Arabia to their first World Cup in 16 years. The Asian champions and the joint-hosts in the 2019 Asian Cup, whom they beat 1-0 in the Group stage of their World Cup qualifiers, had been 2-0 up in this reverse fixture before India staged a comeback in the second half.

It was also a sweet revenge for Saudi Arabia, who lost 4-0 to India in the reverse fixture in March this year.

The Saudis arrived in Malaysia seeking to reassert their place in Asian football after a 16-year absence and the 4-0 victory over India was a perfect start.

Saudi Arabia is one of the three countries along with Japan and Qatar to have booked their place in the FIFA World Cup after the Asian zone qualifiers. The other two countries are Iran and Qatar.

Five of the eight 2018 World Cup finalists were already qualified and had kicked off the World Cup in Russia on June 14. Russia defeated Saudi Arabia 5-0 in their opening World Cup match in Moscow and will face Egypt in the Round of 16.

Vintage Venus overcomes valiant Kvitova

Former champion to play Stephens in last four; Anderson downs Querrey to make men’s semi-finals

Venus Williams has moved back into the final four of the US Open after taking a three-set thriller on Tuesday. She had to end and it was Venus who progressed and breezed through the quarter-finals of Arthur Ashe, winning the quarter-finals 6-3, 3-6, 7-6(2).

The crowd was treated to another great rally – all six of their previous meetings had gone these sets. How do you choose between the obvious favourite and the sentimental favourite? You don’t.

You simply enjoy the tennis – hold your breath during rallies, gasp at close points and groan at the spray of in-aces. In the opening set, Kvitova dropped her serve at 1-1, giving Venus an early break. She double faulted three times. She would go on to double fault four times more throughout the game, one right after another in the stand milled seemingly to encourage “Is he here baby?”
