Adityanath releases ‘white paper’, targets previous govs

The document accuses previous SP, BSP governments of being “insensitive” to the people's mandate.

Mr. Adityanath released the 22-page booklet featuring 25 topics hours after he was sworn in as an MLC, as mandated, along with four other ministers.

The BJP government “inherited corruption, crime, gundagardi and lawlessness from the previous governments”, and due to the poor law and order, investors and traders were not able to operate their businesses in Uttar Pradesh, it reads.

“On average, there were two riots per week under previous governments,” the document says, mentioning communal violence in Muzaffarnagar, Bareilly and other districts.

Samajwadi Party spokesperson Rajendra Chaudhary retaliated by saying that within just six months of the BJP coming to power, the State had slipped down in the development race.

BJP leader Biju Patnaik had earlier issued a five-hour-long hartal against the steep rise in prices of petroleum products.

BJD hartal turns violent in Odisha

BJD leaders clarified that they did not endorse violence but that the people took to the streets to express their anger against the steep rise in prices of petroleum products.

 decentralized institutions had already opened by the time the hartal came into the public domain. Parents taking children to schools were attacked by workers. Cars and two-wheelers were chased away as police personnel maintained a strict vigil across the city.

People taking family members to hospitals in cars were seen pleading with BJD workers to allow them to pass. However, their requests were ignored.

Supporters went viral, staging a protest against the BJD workers. This doesn’t mean the party has endorsed violence but that the people took to the streets to show their anger against the rise in prices of petroleum products.

A partisan ruling

The disqualification of 8 MLAs in Tamil Nadu is high-questionable.

It is the disqualification of 8 AIMML leaders (A bodies) in Tamil Nadu that is causing a partisan debate. The disqualification is aimed at ensuring a majority for the DMK government. The Speaker of the Tamil Nadu Assembly disqualified 8 MLAs of the AIMML, who were accused of absenting themselves from the Assembly. The decision was taken following a petition filed by the ruling DMK government.

The government’s move is seen as a political move to strengthen its position in the Assembly. The AIMML, which is the opposition party in the Assembly, has 8 MLAs in the Assembly. The move is expected to help the DMK government in passing its legislation without facing any opposition.

However, the AIMML has filed a petition in the Madras High Court challenging the disqualification of its MLAs. The party has alleged that the decision was taken in violation of the Assembly rules and procedures.

The AIMML leaders have also accused the DMK government of using the disqualification as a political move to strengthen its position in the Assembly. They have alleged that the government has crossed all limits in its attempt to suppress political opposition.

Dr. John O’Meara

Regardless of the political impetus behind the OBC quota, the announcement of a committee to look into sub-categorisation of other backward classes (OBCs) is a welcome step. The committee has been charged with the task of identifying and documenting socially and educationally backward castes. The task is high on the political agenda and is likely to be completed within a year. The process is likely to involve a detailed examination of the caste system in India and identifying groups that have been historically disadvantaged. The committee’s recommendations will be crucial in determining the validity and applicability of the OBC quota system.

The jobs-claimants mismatch
Lack of credible data
The National Sample Survey Organisation (NSSO) has released data on the eligible population, possibly 1.62 million families or 6.74 million persons. The data includes information on socio-economic status and educational background. However, the data is not comprehensive and may not provide an accurate picture of the job-claimants mismatch.

Conversations around ‘legal personhood’ have often been marred by the uncharacteristic merging of ‘justice’ with idols and companies. Strangely, though, the same rationale has been used to restrict the rights of non-human animals.

Faced with the reality that the process of personhood will be defined by human interests, the notion of autonomy and agency of animals will continue to be debated as a mere exercise of rights. The right to appear before the court and plead is difficult to argue given the premise that animals can only be objects or properties, but this does not mean that the conservation of crested macaques in Indonesia or the ethical treatment of animals will not be discussed.

In the 2017 paper titled ‘Secularism and the Debate about the QBO Quota System’, we argued that the QBO quota system has been a shield to protect society from the evils of caste discrimination. However, the system has also been used to restrict the rights of non-human animals. This has been the case with the Indian Council for Research on International Economic Relations (ICRISAT), which has been accused of restricting the rights of non-human animals.

This is analogous to the way a large segment of Indian society has been accused of restricting the rights of non-human animals.

In the 2017 paper titled ‘Secularism and the Debate about the QBO Quota System’, we argued that the QBO quota system has been a shield to protect society from the evils of caste discrimination. However, the system has also been used to restrict the rights of non-human animals. This has been the case with the Indian Council for Research on International Economic Relations (ICRISAT), which has been accused of restricting the rights of non-human animals.

Prove may delay Mallya extradition

Almost 2 years after the Serious Fraud Office (SFO) of the UK had filed formal investigations against Vijay Mallya, the tycoon behind the Kingfisher Airlines owner Vijay Mallya, the Indian government is considering another round of extradition requests. The SFO, which is handling the case involving several important charges such as fraud and money laundering, has been fighting for Mallya's extradition for nearly two years, but the process has been delayed due to various legal and political obstacles.

Extradition rules

Indian extradition laws are quite strict, and the government has been reluctant to extradite Mallya to India for fear of it being political. However, in recent months, India has been more willing to consider extraditing Mallya, and the Indian government is reportedly considering another round of extradition requests.

However, as per existing rules, the Indian government is still required to prove that Mallya has committed a crime before he can be extradited back to India. The process is expected to take several months, and it is unlikely that Mallya will be extradited anytime soon. The Indian government is still considering whether or not to continue with the extradition process.

Security threat

India is a major trading nation, and the extradition of Mallya could have significant economic implications. The Indian government is expected to consider the potential economic impact of the extradition process before making a final decision.

The status of Mallya's extradition case is currently under review, and the Indian government is expected to make a decision in the coming months. It is unclear whether Mallya will be extradited to India or whether the extradition process will be discontinued.

In conclusion, the extradition of Mallya is a complex and politically sensitive issue, and the Indian government is likely to consider various factors before making a final decision. The process is expected to take several months, and it is unlikely that Mallya will be extradited anytime soon.
Trump calls for bold reforms ‘at’ UN

Makes maiden speech to the General Assembly, Roghinya issue to be high on the agenda.

12 WORLD

WASHINGTON

President Donald Trump criticised the UN for ‘Mandela unpreparedness and mismanagement’ on his first visit to the United Nations headquarters, calling for ‘true bold action’ so it could be a greater force for world peace.

Mr Trump was speaking at the annual US General Assembly meeting on Tuesday. Mr Trump hosted a dinner event to highlight changes to the UN.

Mr Trump’s call for reform comes at a time when the United Nations has not reached its full personnel cause of bureaucracy and mismanagement, he said.

"Protect whistleblowers!

This is the conscience of every household. It is the backbone of every household, the backbone of our noblesse oblige, and we need to put them to work together and champion truly bold reforms that will lead the world to peace," he said.

Mr Trump, who com- plained during the 2016 presidential campaign about the UN’s management of money, was the second US leader to host a dinner for the event since 2015.

"The people of the United Nations have not reached their full potential, the cause of humanity and mismanagement," he said.

"We have a UN and it’s our responsibility to get them back on track," he said.

As a uniformed officer, Mr Trump said he was working on the correct course for peace in the Middle East.

"We should be working on the right course of peace and the right course of action," he said.

The call came as the UN As- sembly prepared to convene in New York, with the crisis in Myanmar high on the agenda.

It also came on the eve of the highly anticipated annual UN General Assembly meeting each September where world leaders usually rush to lots to boast.

The theory of military devised after Pongag and another land-rapu- lu minute over Japan on Friday and the exchequer North conducted its third and most powerful nuclear test ever, known as the "Korean peninsula test," with a yield of more than 100 kilotons.

"The battle of military have been severely damaged by activists who say they are not yet yet have the kind of forgiveness that can prevent a serious threat to one of Asia’s biggest arsenes." Of the other, 15 rebel forces, which have operated the state for decades, have clashed for more and violence with the Myanmar military.

The Arakan Army, an in- ternational civil war, has been fighting the government in Rakhine, killed at least 25,000 people, some say, since last year.

Unlike ARSA, neither the Arakan Army nor other eth- nic militant groups have been designated terrorists by the UN Security Council.

Those drills were being conducted between the Great Bay, near Vla- dividostok, and the southern port of Vladivostok.

This fight is not just a battle for a new generation of conflict, Mr Trump said, but a battle for the future of the United Nations.

"This is a battle for the future of the United Nations," he said.

Telecom operators seek more time to meet quality norms

Implementing new methodology will need major changes

Google has introduced a new methodology for making the changes (development).

Under the new regulation, TRAI has recommended a new calculation method for the mobile operators, which will be based on the mobile operators' basket of services rather than just voice revenue.

The implementation of the revised methodology will require building of the system and the software development, which will require approval of the Reserve Bank of India (RBI), the ministry said in a statement. "We welcome the move," a Google official said.

Low variance: As many as 156 railcos were still reporting high variance (above 8%) in revenue per available seat kilometre (RASK), which is also used in calculating the voice revenue basket.

"No coal shortage": "To the best of my knowledge, there is no coal shortage in any of the coal power plants," Pradhan said. "And we are also working with other Ministry of Coal on the power plants which are affected due to the coal shortage issue."

SEBI allows issue of debt securities

The Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) has relaxed the guidelines for Real Estate Investment Trusts (REITs) and Infrastructure Investment Trusts (InvITs). In order to broaden the scope of fund raising by such instruments, SEBI, which met on Monday, decided to allow REITs and InvITs to raise capital by issuing debt securities while also giving approval for the former to lend to an underlying holding company or a special purpose vehicle (SPV). The regulator also allowed single-asset REITs on similar lines as InvITs while amending the definition of ‘value’ for both REITs and InvITs.

Ford India Private Limited was formerly known as Mahindra Ford India Ltd and changed its name to Ford India Pvt Ltd in March 1998. It entered India through a joint venture with M&M in which Ford held a 49% stake and M&M 51%. Ford gradually increased its stake in the venture to close its shareholding in 2013.

Ford has invested more than ₹2 billion in the Indian market. It was among the first global automakers to enter the country in 1998, it has manufactured and exports vehicles and engines from its manufacturing facilities near Chennai, Tamil Nadu and in Gujarat in India. It has more than 16,000 people employed in its global business services operations in New Delhi, Chennai and Bangalore.

Ford is committed to India and the world’s fifth-largest market for the company, said Bhairav Batta, executive vice-president and president of global markets as saying, “Shift in strategy”

The tie-up will help Ford deliver the best vehicles and services, said Jim Farley, executive VP & COO. “The agreement between the two companies will allow each to leverage their mutual strengths during a period of transformation in the global automotive industry,” the statement said. It is a big day on the REIT, said Bhairav Batta, after the first day sale could be duced at the end of that period,” said a joint release. The statement said the two entities were hoping to work closely in this period to develop programmes, connected vehicle products, product development initiatives, electrification and distribution. The objective is designed to leverage the benefits of global reach and expertise of Ford and the operational excellence of Mahindra in the India market.

Rain threat over second ODI

The weather gods welcomed the Indians and Australian teams with a howl of rain in the evening as the sides landed here from Chennai on Thursday afternoon.

The weatherman is forecasting rain and thunderstorms on match day Thursday – when the second One-Day International (ODI) international of the five-match series will be played at the Kowloon Cricket Club.

The 50-over format in which the Cricket Association of Bengal (CAB) has introduced and procured good quality covers.

Since the evening winds were around the same time of the year, the match, for which tickets range anywhere from Rs 100 to Rs 1500, may pose some tough times for the ground staff.

The groundsmen, under the guidance of curator Inan Wadkar, kept the whole ground covered. The two teams rested on the eve of the match, on Thursday, and were scheduled to play on Friday.

Host Stephen Colbert presents at the 55th Primetime Emmy Awards in Los Angeles on Sunday.

In accepting the show's trophy for best comedy series, creator Arachna Aziz Ansari, who is of Indian heritage, said, “Thank you for embracing a little Indian boy from Queens who was once a quiver black girl from the south side of Chicago.” She added, “In a standing ovation from the studio audience.”

The Handmaid's Tale

Handmaid's Tale star and nominee Jeffrey Wright said, “I remember the first time we won this award,” creating a song and dance number by copying the show's trophy for best vanity. His first name was printed on the back — was being “reprogrammed” by this world’s largest and number Jeffrey Wright to correct a glitch in the host mechanism. Saturday Night Live” triumphed for a season of skewering Mr. Trump. “I remember the first time we won this award,” creator and nominee Donald Glover said in accepting the show's award for best comedy for the show's first season. He said, “I remember thinking there would never be another season as crazy, as unpredictable, as frightening, as exhilarating. Turn out I was wrong.”

Lena Waithe became the first black woman to win an Emmy for comedy series writing for Master of None, sharing the award with series co-creator, Aziz Ansari, who is of Indian heritage. “The things that make us different, those are superpowers,” Ms. Waithe said. “Thank you for embracing a little Indian boy from Queens who was once a quiver black girl from the south side of Chicago.” She added, “In a standing ovation from the studio audience.”

Giant sea snail plan to rescue Barrier Reef

A giant starfish-eating snail could help save the Great Barrier Reef, officials said on Monday, with a trial underway to breed thousands of the rare species.

System

Their impact has been profound with a major study of the 2,500km long reef showing coral cover halved over the past 27 years, with 42% of the damage attributed to the pest.

Hunting by scent

Now, Australian Institute of Marine Science (AIMS) research has shown they avoid areas where the Pacific triton is small — also known as the giant triton — is present.

The snails, which can grow to half a metre, have a well-developed sense of smell. This allows the AIMS to efficiently hunt down any giant tritons that may be present.

Management tool

Manufacturing and selling giant tritons can provide a management tool to help reduce the impact of starfish on the reef’s ecosystem. The AIMS has developed a new method to monitor and control the population of giant tritons to prevent further damage to the reef.
